Are you working on an amazing project to reimagine and activate public space in Memphis? That’s great! Public spaces—sidewalks, streets, plazas, riverfronts and parks—are critical pieces of the vibrant culture and community cohesion in Memphis. But, it’s important to remember that when you’re working in public spaces you may need permission from the managing organization or a permit from a municipal agency. Here’s a quick guide to understand what you might need for small temporary projects in public spaces.

1. Decide the site for your project. Depending on the site, you’ll want to seek permission from different property owners.

2. Consider ways to make your event ‘permit lite’.

3. Call 311. Remember! 311 is a tool to support citizens! Call them and ask for help!

4. Know what permits you need. The following is a list of things that may require an additional permit.

5. Prepare for your permit

Each government agency will need slightly different information, but you can assume all of them will ask you the following. Make sure you have all the answers and as many documents prepared before you start the process.

- Description of the event
- Location of the event
- Date of the event
- Duration of the event
- Will you be disrupting vehicular or pedestrian traffic?
- Who is the main point of contact?
- Proof of a certificate of insurance
- How will you secure the installation and maintain it?
- Description of how the public space will be affected
TIPS BEFORE YOU START:

1. Decide if your project is an event or not. Temporary use permits and event permits are a little bit different. If you’re having an event, if you make it free and open to the public, have insurance and aren’t serving alcohol or having amplified sound, things will be much easier. Temporary use permits could be similar.

2. Get a coalition of supporters. Existing nonprofits may have a volunteer coordinator or special projects manager and existing relationships with government to host projects like yours. Build social capital and investment in your project by creating a coalition.

3. Communication: social media, setting up a Facebook page or using MeetUp, filming and taking photographs of project etc. to share results are all important steps that need to be considered ahead of time.

4. Get an ambassador. Many government agencies want more community engagement on projects like community gardening and park stewardship. Ask someone from a high-touch agency like Parks, Sustainability or Public Works to endorse your project or write a letter of support.

5. Use ioby & Livable Memphis. Raising funds from fellow Memphians proves community buy-in and support for your project, more fodder for your proposal. And, working with ioby and Livable Memphis provides a streamlined approach to working with government. Also, this is a great first step to figuring out the question of insurance.

6. Attend ioby’s How to Prepare for your First Meeting with Local Government Webinar at ioby.org/resources.

Don't forget! If you're working on a project in a school, at a library or in a hospital, you should start by getting permission from that institution. If you're working on a project on or near private property, you'll need permission from the property owner. If you're working on buildings under construction, you should seek permission from the building owner.
